WELCOME

Welcome to Bluffton, please make yourself at home! This guide details the pleasures of visiting, living, playing, and working in Bluffton, Ohio. The directory highlights our members and the wide range of resources you'll find here. Our map (inside back cover) will make getting there easy!

Bluffton is home to some 4,500 residents of Allen and Hancock Counties. We enjoy our proximity to I-75 at exits 140 and 142, as well as 5-minute access to nearby U.S. 30.

Described as "suburban" by online references, Bluffton is remarkable for its compactness and completeness. The historic downtown is full of dining, shopping, and services--as well as a movie theater, senior citizens center, and seasonal farmers market.

Nearby recreational opportunities include the Bluffton Bike and Pedestrian Pathway, Bluffton Family Recreation Center, Bluffton University Nature Preserve, Buckeye Park, Village Park, and Motter Metro Park.

Bluffton is rich in educational and cultural resources. Bluffton University enrolls some 1,000 students and shares cultural and leisure programs with the community. The highly-rated Bluffton Exempted Village Schools serve some 1,200 students. Bluffton Public Library provides a wonderfully wide range of activities and resources.

Bluffton also has a wealth of healthcare services. Bluffton Hospital provides services ranging from an emergency department to obstetrics. Mennonite Home Communities of Ohio offers multiple medical facilities and retirement communities. You'll also find pediatric, chiropractic, podiatry, massage, and other healthcare specialties nearby.

Thank you for exploring Bluffton! If you have questions, please contact the Village of Bluffton or the Bluffton Area Chamber of Commerce for more information.

GETTING TO KNOW BLUFFTON

The heart of Bluffton is two minutes or less from I-75. Our historic downtown stretches down Main Street, anchored by the completely renovated 1887 town hall and its clock tower--the image most identified with Bluffton. It overlooks a commercial district where you can have lunch or buy a dishwasher. Enjoy a pedicure or shop for gifts. Take in a first-run movie or try a crafting class with friends!

Recreational opportunities bring many visitors to Bluffton. We host many university and school sporting events and have excellent bowling, golf, fitness, hiking, and biking facilities. Annual events include the Arts & Crafts Festival, Festival of Wheels, Ride to Remember, National Night Out,

Bluffton Fall Festival, and Blaze of Lights Festival (more details on pages 20 and 21.)

Village features

So where are the bluffs of Bluffton? Community historian Fred Steiner hypothesizes our name may reflect early admiration for the town of Bluffton, Indiana. But while the bluffs along Riley Creek have mostly disappeared, the big and little Riley creeks and two lakes give the village a natural beauty. Easy to explore by car, the village is also perfect for walking and biking via the growing Bluffton Bike and Pedestrian Pathway.

Immigrant roots

The village has roots dating to the 1830s, when European immigrants began clearing land for farming and built the first mill. This history is commemorated by a WPA mural in the Bluffton post office. Swiss immigrants settled in rural Richland Township, a history that is preserved and honored by the Swiss Community Historical Society at Schumacher Homestead. German and Irish families established the unincorporated community of Shannon along Riley Creek.

Our minutes of fame

The most infamous chapter in our history is that gangster John Dillinger robbed Citizens National Bank on August 14, 1933. Another famous figure who spent time in Bluffton is Phyllis Diller, who attended Bluffton College and married local boy Sherwood Diller. The outrageous Diller referred to her husband as "Fang" in her act. Our most international exposure came in 2010, when a buck crashed through the window of Luke's restaurant. The security footage of startled deer and equally startled patrons and staff went viral after appearing on CNN.

Built in Bluffton

In the late 19th and early 20th centuries, Blufftonites were inventors and entrepreneurs, resulting in the Bluffton Slaw Cutter and Triplett electrical testing equipment. Triplett was a major employer as production grew with use of radio, telephone, military needs of WWII, television, and NASA moon exploration.

Bluffton also played a role in the birth of the fair trade movement. In the 1970s Edna Ruth Byler opened the first Ten Thousand Villages shop in Bluffton, now part of a chain of 70 stores and over 300 specialty affiliates.

In the 1980s international manufacturing came to Bluffton. In 1983 GROB-WERKE of Germany established its first U.S. branch office here. The facility has grown to become a 36,000 square meter facility producing universal machining centers and assembly lines. SumiRiko of Japan established a Bluffton presence in 1988. The manufacturer of anti-vibration automotive components expanded more than a dozen times in the following decades.

Strength in community

Bluffton actively works with businesses large and small to provide the environment and resources they need. Local business leaders formed the Bluffton Center for Entrepreneurs in 2007, to provide educational services and startup funding for emerging businesses. In 2017 the Bluffton in Bloom beautification program was initiated by local merchants, the Village of Bluffton, and volunteers. This mutual support is a hallmark of Bluffton's approach to business.

Explore Bluffton! There's so much waiting for you!
